I. BACKGROUND

92-347-363 p4

Lt. [REDACTED] Intelligence Squad, Dade County Department of Public Safety, on November 16, 1963, advised that PAUL DE LUCIA accompanied by GAETANO DE CHIARO, 1725 Thatcher, Elmwood, Ill., arrived at the Miami Airport and was met by ANTHONY RICCI, aka TONY GOBELS. The three were taken into headquarters for investigation and questioning. Lt. [REDACTED] on November 18, 1963, advised that DE CHIARO stated he met DE LUCIA on the plane and did not know him prior to the meeting. DE CHIARO was described as 5'4", 150 lbs., brown hair, brown eyes, date of birth-February 4, 1906, and claimed ownership of the P.M. Appliance Company, 9563 Franklin Ave., Franklin Park, Illinois. All three individuals were released and DE LUCIA advised he would be staying at the Thunderbird Motel, Miami Beach, for three or four days. JOSEPH ERHLICK, Manager, Thunderbird Motel, on November 19, 1963, advised SA [REDACTED] that DE LUCIA checked out of the motel on November 19, 1963 and that DE CHIARO never checked into the motel. WAYNE RHODY, Bellboy, Thunderbird Motel, identified photographs of DE LUCIA and DE CHIARO as having been occupants of Rooms 430-432 on November 16, 1963, but did not observe them after that date. The above is contained in a Chicago report, dated February 19, 1964, entitled, "PAUL DE LUCIA, aka."

A "Chicago Sun Times" article, dated October 14, 1960, on page 1, column 1, entitled, "Suburb Attorney Slain, reflects that MICHAEL J. URGO, 32, of 1900 N. 78th, Elmwood Park, was shot apparently in a robbery attempt by three assailants. URGO was shot as he went to the aid of his father-in-law, GUIDO DeCHIARO, 52, who had been visiting URGO and had gone to move his car into a garage. DeCHIARO was beaten on the head by the attackers. The article states a family spokesman said he knew of no reason for the shooting and that URGO had no large amount of money in his pockets.

92-349-426 p1

The "Chicago Daily Tribune," of October 15, 1960, on page 4, column 4, reflects in an article entitled, "Sift Ties of Slain Lawyer's Kin to Crime Syndicate- DeCHIARO Mum in Police Quiz," that GUIDO DeCHIARO, 54, refused to discuss his alleged ties with the crime syndicate and refused to make a statement to Elmwood Park Police about the slaying of his son-in-law, MICHAEL J. URGO and the attack by two men on him on October 14, 1960. URGO was shot as he came out of his house at 7800 Cortland Ave., Elmwood Park, to the aid of DeCHIARO who was being kidnapped, as he stepped out of his car, by a gunman holding a handkerchief across his mouth. As URGO came running out of his house, a second man in a nearby auto fired at URGO and the gunman with DeCHIARO slugged him on the head with the butt of a pistol. The article states that DeCHIARO had been the mystery man of the slot machine rackets in the west suburbs, since the 1940s operating under a franchise granted by his distant relative PAUL "The Waiter" RICCA. However in 1957,

92-1875

DeCHIARO lost his exclusive and lucrative slot machine operating franchise when the so called young bloods of the syndicate began their grab for power from the old line CAPONE gang leaders. DeCHIARO was pushed out in favor of MIKE "The Brew" MORENO on orders of SAM GIANCANA, leader of the young bloods, who had gained control of the syndicate. The article also states that DeCHIARO's pinball activity might have penetrated DuPage county where JOE "Baggy Pants" PEROTTI holds forth as pinball king.

92-466-506

A "Chicago Sun Times" article, dated October 15, 1960, entitled, "Suburb Slaying Called Result of Kidnap Try," reflects that police theorized that the attempted kidnapping or robbery of west suburban juke box distributor led to his son-in-law's death. MICHAEL J. URGO was fatally shot while running to the aid of his father-in-law, GUIDO DeCHIARO, who was being pistol-whipped by his would-be abductor. Lt. PETER RICE, acting-police chief of Elmwood Park, said the assailants probably were trying to rob or kidnap DeCHIARO BUT HAD no intention of killing URGO.

92-466-505

A "Chicago American" article, dated October 15, 1960, on page 1, column 8, entitled, "URGO Cousin of Gambling Boss DeGRAZIA," reflects that discovery that slain Elmwood Park Attorney, MICHAEL J. URGO, was a blood relative of a crime syndicate boss, ROCCO DeGRAZIA, strengthened police suspicion that gang motives are involved. URGO was shot supposedly while trying to rescue his father-in-law, GUIDO DeCHIARO from a kidnapper or robber. Chicago police believe DeCHIARO and URGO were partners in gambling and that they were associated with crime syndicate hoodlum JOSEPH (Gags) GAGLIANO who lives next door to DeCHIARO. VIRGIL PETERSON, managing director of the Chicago Crime Commission, said that as recently as 1958 the commission turned in a report to Chicago police that DeCHIARO was "moving up" influence in the crime syndicate.

In a "Chicago American" article, dated October 16, 1960, on page 3, column 2, entitled, "Help Sought in Slaying," information reflects that the Elmwood Park Police Chief has appealed for help from State's Attorney BENJAMIN ADAMOWSKI and Sheriff FRANK SAIN in the mystery slaying of a young attorney MICHAEL J. URGO. URGO was the son-in-law of GUIDO DeCHIARO, 54, juke box and pinball machine operator. The victim was shot by one of three men as he tried to rescue his father-in-law. Elmwood Park Police Chief, PETER RICE, is inclining toward the theory that it was a gang killing as URGO was a nephew of ROCCO DeGRAZIA, former aid to AL CAPONE and DeCHIARO is a distant relative of PAUL "The Waiter" RICCA. De CHIARO and his wife are partners in the M & D Music Appliance Co. and the M & B Appliance Co., both at 9763 Franklin Ave., Franklin Park. DeCHIARO insisted that robbery was the sole motive for the attack and stated he operates 40 juke boxes in Chicago, Forest Park and River Grove but denied any connection with pinball machines. The Chicago Police Department Intelligence Unit, however, held to the theory that the crime was the outcome of rivalry for lucrative "spots" for gambling devices and juke boxes. The Intelligence Unit according to the article, believes URGO and his father-in-law were associated in gambling enterprises with JOSEPH "Gags" GAGLIANO who lives next door to De CHIARO. The police are hunting assorted syndicate figures including MIKE "The Broon" MORENO, a Melrose Park gambler, with whom DeCHIARO is known to have been feuding.

92-466-507

A "Chicago American" article, dated October 16, 1960, on page 3, column 2, entitled, "Reporter Finds Lots of Pin Ball Games-No Clues in Mystery Killing," reflects that a reporter toured taverns along Grand Ave. in suburban Elmwood Park, River Grove and Franklin Park in an attempt to find a motive for the murder of MICHAEL J. URGO. URGO was shot as he tried to rescue his father-in-law, GUIDO DeCHIARO, from a kidnapper or robber. The article states that the reporter found pin ball games and juke boxes in almost every tavern he visited but could not find out who the operator of the machines was.

92-1875

92-349-536

A Police Department report, dated January 6, 1961, furnished the office reflects that a confidential source on January 4, 1961 advised that SAM "Mooney" GIANCANA was present at the Armory Lounge, 7427 Roosevelt Road, Forest Park, Ill., on January 3, 1961. Also observed at the Armory Lounge at the time was a 1959 Black Cadillac, plate number 2324-878, registered to G. DeCHIARO, 128 N. 24th Ave., Melrose Park, Ill. and a 1960 Pontiac, plate number 2450-649, registered to [redacted]

[redacted] The report states that officers checked the Intelligence Division Files on DeCHIARO and found that DeCHIARO controls coin machines and gambling in River Grove and Franklin Park.

The Intelligence Unit of the Chicago Police Department, on April 16, 1963, furnished a list of license numbers of vehicles observed at the residence of PAUL RICCA, 1515 Bonnie Brae, River Forest, Ill., during the period March 12, 1963 through March 14, 1963. One of the vehicles listed for March 12, 1962 was a 1961 Cadillac with plate number 411-817, registered to GUIDO DeCHIARO, 128 N. 24th Ave., Melrose Park, Illinois. The above information is contained in a Chicago report, dated May 28, 1963, entitled, "PAUL DeLUCIA, aka."

The Intelligence Division of the Chicago Police Department furnished a list of license numbers to the Chicago Crime Commission of automobiles present at the wake and funeral of ANGELINA SORTINO, Mother of FRANK "Strongy" FERRARA on November 9, 1963. The license numbers were checked through the records of the Chicago Crime Commission and one of those identified was GUIDO DeCHIARO, 1725 Thatcher, Elmwood Park, Illinois. The Chicago Crime Commission records reflect that a "News" clipping of August 23, 1951 reported that GUIDO DeCHIARO, 39, 9670 Franklin, Franklin Park, Ill., and others were arrested by the State's Attorney's police in a handbook at the rear of 9668 Franklin. The records also reflect that a memorandum of May 5, 1954, reflects that DeCHIARO is in his fifties and allegedly is connected with illegitimate enterprises dating back to prohibition days when he was in charge of the operation of several stills in Melrose Park. The above is contained in a letter from the Chicago Crime Commission, dated October 16, 1964, regarding the wake and funeral, November 9, 1963, of ANGELINA SORTINO.

The Chicago Police Department furnished the office a report dated November 15, 1963 regarding a surveillance conducted at the wake and funeral of FRANK "Strongy" FERRERA's Mother, ANGELINA SORTINO, on November 9, 1963. On a list of license numbers of vehicles observed during the above wake and funeral was one for a black, two door, Cadillac, license number LE 2070, registered to GUIDO DeCHIARO, 1725 Thatcher, Elmwood Park, Illinois.

U. S. Subpenas

Hit Mob as

Probe Widens

United States marshals and FBI agents armed with subpenas fanned thru the city and suburbs today seeking reluctant witnesses in the federal grand jury investigation of gangland activities.

Some of the most elite members of mob society already have been tagged—while stepping from phone booths or sitting on bar stools—for command appearances before the grand jury here tomorrow.

Meanwhile United States Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, David Schippers, head of the justice department's organized crime unit in Chicago, and Sam Betar, one of Hanrahan's top assistants, were making final preparations for their presentation to the jury.

Katzenbach Sees Convictions

United States Atty. Gen. Nicholas B. Katzenbach conferred with them personally yesterday before fulfilling a speaking engagement before the law school alumni association of the University of Chicago.

During a brief meeting with newsmen Katzenbach flatly promised that, "some important crime syndicate leaders" will be convicted here "in the next year or two."

Nine crime syndicate figures or associates of them, starting right at the top, are known to be under subpena to appear before the grand jury tomorrow.

They are:
Salvatore [Sam] Giancana, the acknowledged boss of crime syndicate operations here, who was handed a subpena as he stepped from a phone booth Sunday night in Forest Park.

Sam [Teetz] Battaglia, a gambling and loan shark chief, who was served Monday after losing an 80-m. p.h. auto race with FBI agents on the Illinois tollway.

Murray [The Camel] Humphreys, 65, onetime ruler of the syndicate's labor-racketeers, and a background figure in political circles.

Mandel [Manny] Skar, 41, a thrice-convicted felon who temporarily became a night club impresario on borrowed millions, but is under indictment for income tax evasion.

Lewis G. Barbe, 34, a former insurance broker who turned stool pigeon and was seriously injured a year ago when he was bombed out of his car parked across the street from the Criminal courts building.

Guido DeChiaro, a juke box distributor.

Stephen Anselmo, former Stone Park village attorney and a confidant of Giancana.

Benjamin [Buddy] Jacobson, a 1st ward Democratic organization political strongman who over the years has held a number of public payroll jobs.

Anthony P. Tisci, an attorney and secretary to Rep. Frank Annunzio [D., Ill.], and Giancana's son-in-law.

Tisci, who is married to Giancana's daughter, Bonita Lucille, admitted he had been served a subpoena and told CHICAGO'S AMERICAN:

"It simply looks like harassment to me because I am the son-in-law of Mr. Giancana."

Work Past Midnight

Katzenbach, in his remarks to reporters, left no doubt that there had finally been a breakthrough and that he is confident that certain people in high gangland authority are going to jail.

The action of Schippers and his men, who have been working in their offices in the Federal building past midnight every night this week, indicates they intend to make it a hot summer for the syndicate here.

Katzenbach's prophecy marked the first time that assurance was given by a United States attorney general that the justice department was going after the top figures in crime.

Syndicate Chiefs Worried
Heat already generated by the activities of the FBI agents and federal marshals has crime syndicate circles from River Forest to Rush street buzzing with questions like:

"What are they after?" Jacobson is an aid and counsel for Pat Marcy, 1st ward organization secretary, who reportedly gets communications from Giancana.

Katzenbach, while refusing to comment on the grand jury investigation itself, made it clear as a gang chief's diamond ring that somebody is chattering like a chipmunk.

"We often go a long time, then we get a break and somebody starts talking," he said. "We're arriving at that situation in Chicago."

"I strongly support a law to broaden immunity. It is important to be able to get people to talk. It is indispensable in investigation of the crime syndicate."

Barbe's anticipated grand jury appearance already is reported to be causing considerable consternation among his former underworld associates.

In the past he is known to have disclosed information about the activities of Giancana and Battaglia, as well as others.

Seek Woman Friend

FBI agents also reportedly are searching for one of Giancana's woman companions on the eastern seaboard and Florida, to serve her with a subpoena. It was believed she may have learned inside mob secrets in her close association with him.

Jacobson and Marcy were involved in background manipulations leading to the 1963 resignation of 1st ward Ald. John D'Arco, whose ouster was attributed to Giancana.

Stylish Hoodlums Breeze In for Probe

BY JACK LAVIN

Top crime syndicate hoodlums displayed the latest in syndicate dress — college-style plaid fedora hats—as they appeared for a federal grand jury investigation into the syndicate.

The hoodlums had little to say to reporters, except to shout occasional obscenities, when they arrived at the new Federal Building for questioning Friday.

SAM GIANCANA, 57, reputed head of the crime syndicate here, was the first to arrive at the Federal Building and set the style pace with his plaid fedora.

Sam Battaglia and Guido De Chiaro also were wearing the sporty hats when they arrived. Battaglia was asked if this was the latest in syndicate garb.

"We got them at a bargain sale," he replied.

The narrow brim fedoras are similar to the type actor Rex Harrison wore in "My Fair Lady."

All of the hoodlums said they had no idea why they were being called before the jury.

But one of the reported goals of the jury, to investigate a possible link between the syndicate and politics, became apparent as political figures appeared to answer their subpoenas.

BENJAMIN Jacobson, a 1st Ward Democratic politician, reported. Soon after came Anthony Tisci, secretary to U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio (D-Ill.). Tisci is Giancana's son-in-law.

As Jacobson prepared to depart after appearing before the jury, reporters pressed him and his attorney, Meyer Gladstone, for a comment.

"Take the Fifth (amendment) with them too," Gladstone told Jacobson. This led observers to believe that Jacobson had refused to testify before the jury.

Manny Skar, former owner of the Sahara Inn motel in Schiller Park, which went into receivership under him, appeared worried. His eyes were a bit red, as if he had had a sleepless night.

Skar refused to tell reporters what he told the jury, but said his subpoena was continued so that he could be called back to testify later.

Most of the hoodlums were accompanied by attorneys.

A woman who gave her name as Bergit Clark carried a valise, apparently containing papers, into the grand jury room with her as she prepared to testify.

The Clark woman, a tall brunet, refused to comment to reporters. An attorney who accompanied her refused to identify himself.

GIANCANA appeared to be in a pleasant mood as he walked into the lobby of the Federal Building, but his pleasant expression turned to a scowl when reporters asked him about singer Phyllis McGuire.

He shouted obscenities at reporters and hurried on to an elevator, which whisked him to the 15th floor.

Giancana was admitted to the U.S. attorney's office there and turned in his subpoena to a clerk.

Then he removed his wrap-around sunglasses and smiled at reporters.

FBI subpoena-servers have been seeking Miss McGuire, who has been linked romantically with Giancana, a widower.

The FBI has followed Giancana as he wooed Miss McGuire and reportedly conducted mob business in Las Vegas, Nev. and on the East Coast.

Giancana was dressed in an expensive steel gray-colored suit. In addition to his jaunty hat, he wore a narrow gray tie and pointed black shoes.

Giancana appeared to be about 30 pounds lighter than his normal weight. There was speculation that he may have lost some of the weight worrying about the federal investigation.

After his grand jury appearance, Giancana and his two attorneys tried to get a taxi near the Federal Building.

During a fruitless wait, Giancana unwrapped a long cigar and lit it and then fumbled with the wrapper, apparently undecided on what to do with it.

Finally he left the two lawyers and walked a short distance to a trash basket and dropped the wrapper into it.

The three men tired of waiting for a taxi and walked to Jackson and State where they hailed one.

Other top hoodlums subpoenaed included Murray Humphreys, Gus Alex and Charles English.

THE INVESTIGATION is supposed to be a top secret, though its main purpose is fairly well known—to start the machinery that will put Giancana behind bars.

The federal prosecutors presenting material to the grand jury will try to convince the jurors that Giancana should be indicted for violation of federal anti-racketeering laws.

Federal officials have remained closemouthed about the grand jury investigation.

ANOTHER scheduled witness is Lewis Barbe, a stool pigeon from away back. Barbe, who talks not only to reporters but to detectives and federal investigators, will be heavily guarded when he appears before the grand jury.

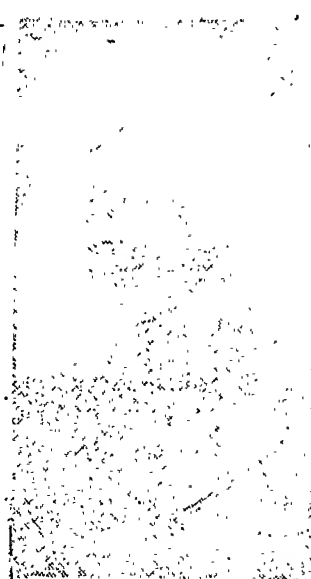

Early last year, while Barbe was testifying before a county grand jury, a bomb was planted in his auto. When Barbe started the car the bomb went off, seriously injuring his legs.

It is feared that the syndicate may make another effort to silence Barbe.

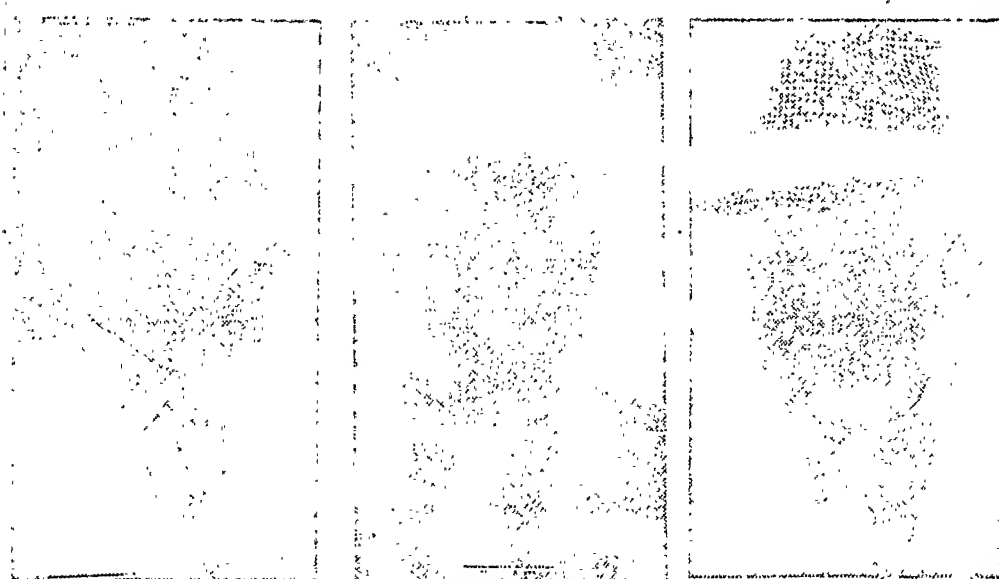

Barbe became particularly unpopular with some underworld figures when he volunteered to testify for the prosecution against Marshall Caifano in an insurance fraud trial.

Barbe never actually took the witness stand against Caifano, but his willingness to do so led to his being held for 18 months in the protective custody of the state's attorney's witness quarters.

While there, federal agents questioned him at least a dozen times. The information they sought was not so much about Caifano as about his boss, Giancana.
